What I bring

Revenue Operations
CRM architecture (HubSpot, Salesforce), funnel and pipeline design, steering cockpits, targets and compensation, data quality.

Transformation
Post-merger integration, team restructuring, process redesign, change management, AI agents and automation (n8n, Claude Code).

Leadership
Managed RevOps and Ops teams, reported to ComEx and CROs, ran leadership committees, coached internal teams until they could run on their own.

AI agents for revenue teams

I design internal agents that run alongside the team, wire them into the CRM, and make sure people actually use them. Below are examples of agents I build for revenue teams.

01 Orchestration

Agents connected to the CRM, Slack and data sources with n8n and Claude Code. Each agent owns one job, humans validate before anything reaches a customer.

02 Implementation

Start with one high-impact workflow, clean the data first, measure the time saved or the revenue protected, then extend.

03 Change management

Agents fit into existing rituals (pipeline review, QBR, ComEx). Teams are trained, owners are named, adoption is tracked.

CUSTOMER SUCCESS

Churn early warning

Watches usage drops, support tickets and email sentiment. Alerts the CSM with the account context and a suggested save play before the renewal.

MARKETING

Competitor watch

Tracks competitors' websites, pricing pages, job posts and reviews. Sends a weekly brief and flags deals where a competitor is mentioned.

SALES

Signal-based prospecting

Detects funding rounds, hiring and tech stack changes in target accounts. Writes the account brief and a draft sequence in the CRM before the rep starts the day.

SALES

Deal risk & pipeline hygiene

Flags stalled deals, missing next steps and slipping close dates, and suggests the next best action ahead of the pipeline review.

ACCOUNT MGMT

Expansion radar

Spots accounts hitting usage limits or adding users, and opens an upsell opportunity for the account manager.

REVOPS

CRM data steward

Deduplicates, enriches and normalises records every night, and reports what it changed so the data stays trustworthy.

Tech stack

Tools I have implemented, migrated or administered, grouped by where they sit in the revenue chain.
